150 CIVILIANS SEE HOW MODERN ARMY WORKS

More than one hundred and fifty civilians, Canadian Legion officials, newspaper men and others who had given assistance in recruiting were the guests of M.D. 13 at Calgary on Friday, November 7, when a comprehensive program was carried through to show the visitors what the army was, what it did and how it did it. The day was arranged by Brigadier F. M. W. Harvey, V.C., district officer commanding, and his staff, at the suggestion of Lt.-Col. James Mess, Ottawa, director of civilian recruiting, who was present and gave an address in the evening. The arrangements were most capably made and carried out, and while the day was a stiff one for the visitors, everything was carried out to time and it would have been difficult to improve the program.

In the morning the delegates met in the ballroom of the Palliser Hotel. The Brigadier welcomed them and pointed out to them the serious position in which the country stood today and the urgent need for more men in the army. Members of the district staff, including Col. H. C. Greer, Major J. H. Gainer, Major A. V. Chase, Lt.-Col. D. G. L. Cunningham and Captain R. P. Fitzgerald spoke on various important phases of army organization. Col. Greer dealing with organization, Major Gainer with enlistments, Major Chase with pay and allowances, Lt.-Col. Cunningham with training and education, and Captain Fitzgerald with trades and training. Following Captain Fitzgerald's address, the delegates were driven to Victoria Park where guests conducted them through the government trades school, where members of the forces were being trained in wood and metal work. One in four of the men in the army today must be trained workman, Captain Fitzgerald said.

After a welcome by Mayor Davidson on behalf of the City of Calgary, and lunch at the Palliser, the party drove to Sarcee camp where detachments from the Infantry Training Centre at Currie Barracks put on some intensely interesting demonstration of today's army weapons. An anti-aircraft demonstration was particularly interesting, where the riflemen and Bren gunners brought down parachutists represented by 30-inch balloons. Three universal carriers rushed into action over a steep parapet and through a deep ditch. The crews unlimbered their Bren guns quickly and took part in the anti-aircraft work. After the visitors had a good chance to inspect the weapons and the vehicles, several visitors taking a hand in firing the Bren guns. A Tommy gun and a three-inch mortar were also demonstrated at Sarcee before the party moved over to Currie Barracks for the final part of the program.

At Currie the first demonstration was of bayonet fighting. A squad ran through a difficult uphill bayonet fighting course. The use of rifle grenades and hand grenades was shown, and on the bar rack square a gas decontamination squad in full uniform carried out the decontamination of a supposedly gassed area, and also demonstrated how to deal with incendiary bombs. In the drill hall at Currie, beds were set up and complete kits were laid out for inspection, with a detailed list of the articles included in the kit. Four soldiers were dressed in the four types of marching order: walking out dress, drill order, battle order and full pack. An inspection of the men's huts followed and supper was served to the party in the men's mess huts—and a good supper it was.

After supper, Col. Mess addressed the gathering in the auditorium of Currie Barracks. Brigadier Harvey acted as chairman, and Col. Mess had a smart soldier in battle order on the platform when he opened his address which was in the main an able plea for civilian support for the government's present voluntary recruiting program. The army needed men, Col. Mess reiterated, and he appealed to his audience to do everything in their power to assist the authorities in getting them. Following the address, a number of questions were asked and several suggestions put forward to improve the response from the young men throughout the province. Many of the delegates were ex-service men and were personally in favor of a proper conscription system, but were anxious to do what they could to help the authorities under the present recruiting set-up.

Transportation between points during the day was provided by a convoy of station wagons and light trucks from the R.C.A.S.C. Training Centre at Red Deer, and the work was smartly carried out. Delegates were present from the Peace River country on the north to Cardston on the south, and from the Saskatchewan border to the British Columbia boundary. All those present were deeply indebted to the military authorities for an exceptionally interesting day.

IRMA U.F.C. LOCAL HOLDS SUCCESSFUL MEET

The regular monthly meeting of the Irma U.F.C. local No. 154 was held in Hedley's hall on November 10, at 8 p.m. A good crowd was in attendance.

After the regular business of the meeting had been transacted the program committee, under the able leadership of Mr. T. Sanders, took over and kept everyone entertained for over an hour.

The game, "Mr. McCorkidale Dies," was a scream. Among other items on the program were songs by Mrs. Wilbert Myers and Billy Nash, accordion solos by Ralph Congdon, recitations by Mrs. O. Parke, monologue by Sydney Knowles, and a dialogue by T. Sanders and J. Jackson, a shadow play entitled "A Minor Operation" in which the patient (Billy Dootson) after being put to sleep with the help of a hand axe, was completely overhauled by head surgeon Edwin Sanders. A delightful lunch brought to a close a very successful and enjoyable evening.

The next meeting of the Irma local will be held in Hedley's hall on December 1st, at which time a program will also be put on. All farmers and their families are cordially invited.

— THE HOME MARKET —

We had a man in our office the other day who was going over to the post office to buy an order to send to a mail order house for storm windows. We asked him to give us a chance to bid on his requirements. He condescendingly and laughingly complied and was surprised to find out he could buy his storm windows right in his own lumber yard, in his own town, as cheaply as he could from the mail order house. We are here to serve you and we thank you for your inquiries.

Value Of Propaganda

New weapons and new methods of combat now used in the second world war, have brought many strange expressions into common usage. "Fifth column," "Molotov bread basket," "balloon barrage," and numerous other terms, unfamiliar before the present war, now appear quite naturally in the news columns of our papers and radio press bulletins.

One important weapon, however, has an old name into which events of this war have put a new and wider meaning. That word is "propaganda," and it was introduced in its newest form by the highly publicized Dr. Goebbels.

Much has appeared in the news lately of the measures taken by the Russians in this regard. They have effectively disrupted German announcements, broadcast news of German losses in Russia, and otherwise harassed the rigidly controlled air waves of the Reich. There have been stories, too, of the brilliant "V for Victory" campaign launched by the British Broadcasting Corporation. Results of this clever piece of propaganda are recorded every day in uprising and unrest in the occupied countries. Vichy officials blame the unrest in France on this campaign, the full story of which will not be known until the people of the occupied countries have joined with the free democracies in the final destruction of Naziism.

Use Other Methods

This, however, is only one way in which the B.B.C. is fighting and defeating Dr. Goebbels, just as effectively as the Royal Air Force is sweeping the Luftwaffe out of the skies. For twenty-four hours of every day the B.B.C. broadcasts authentic news and commentaries to every corner of Europe. These programs are given in all the European languages, including the dialects of isolated districts. That they are regularly heard in the occupied countries is known beyond a shadow of doubt, and this despite very rigid Nazi rulings and severe penalties for infractions of the verboten order. Through secret means, known only to the British Government, the B.B.C. has a very good estimate of the number of people who listen to these programs. Letters, too, reach Britain by devious ways, telling of the hope and courage these forbidden broadcasts bring. Countless numbers who are now in bondage, suffering from every form of persecution, are looking hopefully forward to the day of their deliverance from the Nazi yoke. It is to hear what they recognize as truth, that the oppressed peoples of Europe risk their very lives to listen to the British programs. It is beyond doubt that they must be greatly heartened to know that elsewhere in the world strong forces are working to bring about their release, and that they will see yet another "new order" in Europe based on freedom, and relief from all those who are now under Nazi domination.

For Final Victory

Particular effort is injected into programs which are broadcast to all classes of people in Germany, and that these programs are heard in the Reich is corroborated by no less an authority than the diminutive Dr. Goebbels himself, who goes on the air frequently to refute statements made in B.B.C. broadcasts.

In France it is commonly stated that there are three governments—Paris, Vichy and the B.B.C. And so, on this front as on many others, a strong and unrelenting attack is being made. When the final victory is reached, those who have carried on this unending task, will take their place with others who have taken Nazi weapons and wielding them with a deeper courage and a greater conviction than the Nazis could ever know, have brought about ultimate victory for the forces of freedom and democracy.

Story About Illinois Railroad Clerk Reads Like Fairy Tale

Richard Grady, 73, of East St. Louis, Ill., retired railroad clerk, received a $29.03 paycheck from the Illinois Central Railroad—38 years late.

Grady worked as a laborer for the railroad for fifteen days in 1903. But when he started for the payor to collect his money, high water kept him from the tracks. Four days later when he could reach the tracks the payor had been moved.

He attempted to collect from the railroad but had lost his claim ticket for the money and didn't get the check. Last summer, after he had retired, he had an attorney write the railroad. A checkup on the books showed he never was paid and the check was drawn up.

War Makes Many Changes

Dinner At Savoy Much Simpler Than In Peace Time

Noel Barber, in Overseas Daily Mail says: My mention of dinners reminds me that I did see at the Savoy one week the strangest menu they have probably ever had.

Sir Courtauld Thomson gave a lunch to the new Governor of Bermuda, Viscount Knollys. There was an imposing list of guests, whose names were printed on one side of the menu. And on the other side, the actual menu. It consisted of only three words: Macaroni, Chicken, Sweet.

That was all. A good idea, too, except perhaps to the artistic head waiter, who took one look at the small slip of paper and muttered to me: "I don't know why they don't just print 'Food'."

The point is, of course, that you get just as much food as you need, and far less indigestion than you deserve—far less, anyway, than you would have got at the Savoy's old-time menus. I looked up one used for a party given about 50 years ago by the Duke of Orleans in the same room as this week's lunch.

On that menu were 18 courses and six different wines. It was considered bad manners to miss a course in those days.

The Heart Of Norway

The funeral of an R.A.F. pilot in Norway became an occasion for a demonstration of anti-German feeling as fishermen and farmers contributed to the cost of the funeral and women wept and men sang national songs.

Could Never Be Trusted

Food Sent To Europe Would Be Taken By Nazis

Here are some facts in one day's news that bear on the proposal of Mr. Hoover to feed the people of the occupied countries of Europe—his plea for the women and children who are in dire need.

Germany has been taking from France 14,000 head of cattle a month, much of the wine so essential in a land of impure water, all the reserves of cheese, potatoes, sugar, beet, wheat and fruit.

Walther Funk, Germany's economic minister (that is, director of looting), was in Rome arranging with Italy for stripping the Ukraine of foodstuffs and other supplies and dividing up the spoils.

The German army in Rumania is now taking from that country its food reserves and clothing. Wearing apparel is so scarce that the price has skyrocketed.

Still, Mr. Hoover, with laudible purpose but with no relation to reality, continues to urge his plan. He talks of "safeguards." Can he really believe any could be devised that Germany would not get around or else just trade on?

If Germany will loot France of her own supplies when Hitler professes to seek the collaboration of Frenchmen, why wouldn't he loot her of our supplies?

If Hitler will take food away from Rumania when Rumanians are fighting Germany's battles, what chance is there that he would respect signs saying that the food came from the United States, for which he has stated his contempt?

Finally, the arrangements going forward for the looting of the Ukraine show how consistently Germany pursues her policies. She is going to take what food she wants wherever it is found.—Milwaukee Journal.

Articles Of Clothing Worn By Hitler Smuggled Out Of Germany

Articles of clothing "guaranteed" to have been worn by Hitler have been smuggled out of Germany into Switzerland and Spain. The recipients have paid handsomely for the trophies.

This traffic in a notoriety's raiment is by no means new and accounts for the fact that a fair number of Napoleonic relics survive in museums all over Europe.

When a dictator dies national collectors become interested in his wardrobe. While buying Hitler's in advance is always a gamble, the gamblers reckon that coming events are casting reassuring shadows before. Possibly they are waiting to disinfest and display that jacket which Adolf threatened to wear until the war was won.—Glasgow Herald.

Ministry Of Food Shows Goebbels United Kingdom Not Bankrupt

Special Prayer Used At Graduation Exercises In Ontario School

"I wish for you chaps good hunting," Air Commodore G. E. Brookes, O.B.E., told the first class of bomber pilots graduating at No. 16 Service Flying Training School, R.C.A.F., at Hagersville, Ontario.

One of the most impressive moments of the wings parade came when Flight Lieutenant J. W. Jennings, station padre, prayed for the bomber pilots. The prayer, he said, was written by an officer of the general list at the Hagersville school.

Author of the prayer Flight Lieutenant Jennings read was not identified. It had been composed especially for the first class and may be used at all succeeding graduations.

"Cast about these pilots, Almighty God, the sure fabric of Thy holy spirit, that they may be gentle in their strength, steadfast in defeat and humble in victory," the prayer went. "Toughen the fibre, we beseech Thee, of their individuality, to the end that, devoting themselves wholly to their duties in Thy service, they be not lonely. Comfort those whom they leave behind, bring them back more full of Thy strength when Thy time of violence has passed away and we have peace."

Pies! England had them first. A flaky, thick crust, topping a delicious, nourishing one-dish meal which consisted of meat, vegetables, gravy and seasonings made up the original pie as it was served in England centuries ago. The traditional apple pie was developed many years later. The famous fruit pie, and some others, long have been looked upon as "firsts" in desserts. Lemon, chocolate, custard and countless other fillings have been perfected over a period of time, until to-day we find Webster defining a pie as "an article of food consisting of a pasty crust with any of various kinds of fillings."

2 tablespoons butter

Roll corn flakes into fine crumbs. Melt butter, add sugar gradually and mix with crumbs. Reserve ½; this mixture, press the rest evenly over bottom and sides of pie pan.

Fill pie shell with apples; sprinkle with ½ cup sugar mixed with cinnamon. Dot with 2 tablespoons butter; sprinkle remaining crumbs over top and bake in moderate oven (350 degrees F.) for ½ hour, reduce heat to 300 degrees F. and bake one hour longer, until apples are tender.

Yield: One 9-inch pie.

What Plan Means

National Church In Germany Would Supplant Those Now Existing

The Christian Science Monitor published the abstract of an alleged Nazi plan for a national church to supplant existing churches in the Reich and "annihilate" Christianity. The Monitor said that the scheme was advanced by Alfred Rosenberg, Nazi philosopher and policy-maker, but that this did not necessarily mean it would be carried out.

The Rosenberg version of N. R. (National Reichkirche) would be formed along military lines with the sword the symbol instead of the cross and "Mein Kampf" the credo instead of the Bible, the Monitor said. All other churches or religious orders would have to leave the Reich and there would be a strict ban on any religious group holding or receiving property.

There would be no priests, clergy or scribes in the new order, the Monitor's version related, and only Nazi party orators would have the right to speak in the churches, which would remain only in the architectural sense.

Sheep-Dogs On Payroll

Work Without Orders On Great Western Railway In Wales

The Great Western Railway (reports a correspondent) has 25 sheep dogs on its pay-sheets in Wales at places where sheep often break through the fences, not only endangering their lives but delaying the trains' progress.

The dogs, working without orders, find obscure openings in fences through which to shepherd the flock back. They learn to develop "line sense"; if they are caught between trains on adjacent lines they lie down until both have passed.

If maintenance men, working on the line, do not heed the noise of an on-coming train the dogs bark at them and refuse to leave until the last workman is out of the way.—Manchester Guardian.

Most picturesque London scene recently was haymaking in the Green Park. Nearly 40 loads were taken away in heavy carts supplied by South London cartage firm which still keeps 40 Shire horses busy.

Normally the grass in the parks is mown. This year it was allowed to grow nearly three feet tall. "Of course," said one haymaker, "after cutting hay in this park one feels like setting up a lost property office."

DAUGHTER OF DESTINY

—BY—
Eleanor Atterbury Colton

CHAPTER XXXIII.

Just what her strange destiny might have held in store for her if Vara hadn't stepped back into her life again, Devona could never imagine. Perhaps because Vara Vadne was part of that destiny intricately, perhaps because it was all written in the stars for an old Indian fakir to foresee—at any rate, Vara laid strong hands on the pattern threads of her daughter's life.

The message came just before dinner, Devona and Dale had spent a heart-breaking day being gay together. Gay over a delicious luncheon that neither of them tasted. Gay over shopping while Devona bought luggage and clothes for her coming wedding trip with Tal that they both tried to ignore for the moment. Gay over cocktails that only threatened to break down the reserve they were trying to build between them. Trying so hard to make love behave as friendship, passion as affection.

It wasn't working very well yet, Devona realized, catching sight of her flushed, happy face once in a back-bar mirror. But in time it could. They'd make it work! For Tal's sake they had to.

Weary, nearly spent with the force of baffling emotions they had returned to the old Brasher home late that afternoon to find Tal pacing the living room frantically.

"I thought you'd never show up," he said, his eyes wild with worry. "Vara's collapsed. She's dying!"

"Vara!" Devona repeated, shocked. "Yes, and she's been calling for you. Both of you. We've got to hurry."

"Mother!" Unconsciously, Devona revealed the tie that bound her to that woman who already had brought so much sorrow into her daughter's life. After all, Vara was mother. Dad would have wanted—

Dale drove them to the hospital with magnificent indifference to traffic regulations.

"Daughter?" a kind-faced nurse asked. "Yes. She's been asking for you. Go in."

The room was small, darkened. For a moment, Devona could scarcely see the slim form in the bed. Then it moved, raised a hand in faint gesture of welcome.

"Come in," Vara's voice but so changed. "I want you."

That effort had proved too great a drain on Vara's slim reserve and though Devona went to her side in—stantly, Vara had already fainted away. Frightened, Devona rang for the nurse.

"She's still too weak. You'll have to wait," the nurse said, crisp starched skirts rustling like old parchment. Her delirium, she clattered for a chance to tell it.

And that waiting seemed endless. What message could Vara have that was so important, so great a weight on her mind that even in her weakness, her delirium, she clattered for a chance to tell it.

Dale and Tal both paced the long hospital corridor with her. Every time Vara's door opened they all three started, anxiously. Strange, Devona thought wryly, how each of them was bound to that slim, inert form lying there in that darkened room. Each in a different way. But bound, nevertheless.

"You needn't stay, Dale," Devona suggested after the first fruitless hour. "I hate taking so much of your precious time and—"

"Skip it," he muttered. "But in the end, they all had to go. The doctor, shaking his head anxiously, said Vara was much too overworked about something to be disturbed. Any excitement, any strain on her already-weakened heart might prove fatal. Since mention of her daughter's name seemed to upset her, it might be several days before she could see her."

"I'll have to stay, Tal," Devona said later that evening when they were back in the Brasher drawing room. "After all—she is my mother. No matter what has happened, And she needs me now."

"Sure. Of course. We'll just postpone things until she's O.K.," Tal said, smiling, taking her hand.

"I hate upsetting your plans—"

"As it happens, you aren't," Tal came to perch on the arm of her chair. "Gay Dorset—the star for this show I'm working on—is arriving from San Francisco in a couple of days. I'm to meet her and to cover some of the scenes. We'd have had to come back from Reno, anyway, darling. So—you see it's working out O.K. all around."

Was it? Devona wondered, and involuntarily let her glance slip to Dale's grim face, linger for a moment.

She caught it back. Tal's eagerness, his renewed self-confidence had been bought at great price. But, she smiled up at him now, it was worth it.

Devona went to the hospital every day. But it was nearly a week before they let her see Vara. And when they did, Devona gasped with shock. Not Vara! Not that hollow-checked, pallid face against the pillow! It couldn't be.

"You're being swell about this, aren't you Devona?" Dale smiled at her one afternoon when Tal was busy with conferences to call for her after visiting hours at the hospital.

"After all she didn't take her responsibilities toward you very seriously."

"She's ill now. And needs me. It's not being noble, Dale," Devona smiled wryly. "It's just being—"

"Dale pressed her hand fiercely. "You're always that, aren't you? 'What would happen, I wonder, if we didn't either of us have a shred of conscience between us?'"

Tears rushed into Devona's eyes again as they'd had a way of doing these past hectic days. Tears she couldn't control. Tears that were always ready to put all the world out of focus.

"Look here. Let's pretend we have no conscience—just for to-night," Dale suggested as if he'd read her thought. "Tal's tied up with this Dorset dame, beating her around Los Angeles while she makes up her mind if she likes the dialogue he's written for her. And surely there'd be nothing wrong—say, our having dinner somewhere fancy and treating ourselves to a little dancing. Tal wouldn't care. And after all, we've not much to remember."

There'd be harm, all right. Plenty of it. Every time they were together it was harder to go on with this masquerade. But, Devona couldn't refuse. One last glorious evening with Dale all to herself! She was human, after all!

Devona dressed carefully. One of the pretty lime green dinner gowns she'd selected as part of her trousseau. The color made her skin seem gardenia white, her hair blue-black. Slippers to match, a luxurious silver fox cape—Tal's engagement present to her. She stroked the soft fur a little guiltily. This wasn't being exactly fair to Tal, she scolded herself. Not the dinner itself, nor the dancing—but the racing, tremulous thrill she couldn't suppress.

Determinedly, Devona tried to set a keynote of gay friendliness from the moment Dale crossed the Brownstone's lobby to meet her.

"Look at the girl," he grinned, as he slipped her arm through his. "Isn't she gorgeous?"

"Isn't she, though!" Devona laughed back at him. "And her handsome big brother is as smart as himself. What kind of mischief shall we get into, first?"

Dale accepted the keynote, pitched his own railway to match as, over cocktails at the Top Hat and then dinner at Victor's they banded wince as lightly as if their hearts were really in it.

"Now—let's go some place to dance," Dale suggested finally. "I crave soft music to soothe this savage soul."

So they went up onto the St. Claire Roof Garden where a muted orchestra played softly under a starlit sky. The warm, balmy night, the soft strains of the music, maybe it was the touch of Dale's arm about her waist, the smoothness of his chin pressed against her forehead—something snapped the frail bond by which she held her emotions in leash. Trembling washed over Devona and she clung to him, desperately, almost frantically.

Instantly responsive, Dale's arm tightened, his head turned until his lips pressed hard against her forehead, his heart thundered response to the clamor her own was setting up.

"Darling," he whispered. "Darling, how can I ever give you up?"

"I don't—know," she whispered, shaken. "I love you so."

"After that, they drifted with the music—as if, for the moment, anyway, they had stepped into another world that held only themselves."

"Darling, we can't go through with this," Dale argued a little later as they stood looking deeply, hungrily into each other's eyes. "It's all a rotten mistake. But there's still time. We could slip over to Yuma. Once it was done—"

To Yuma. To be Dale's bride. Tonight, maybe. Details of that picture enlarged in Devona's quick imagination. To belong to him "until death"—forever and ever—Dale's!

That couldn't be. Devona knew that. Her shoulders sagged unconsciously under the burden of her renewed decision. And Dale must have realized it, too, because he said:

"I know. It's no use. And something died a little in his eyes. "Remembering what we'd done to Tal would stand between us the rest of our lives."

Devona nodded. After that, they danced in silence, arms, eyes, clinging hungrily as if this were to be the last look, the last embrace. Like hard-won reprieve from a life sentence to—

Suddenly Dale's eyes fixed on something just beyond her shoulder. He stiffened and surprise flickered across his face a moment before he covered it with poised control.

"There's Tal now."

Devona felt her own guilty conscience spread a quick flush to her cheeks. Tal! But—there was nothing to feel guilty about. Not now. Tal—arming herself with that they'd made the only right decision. She turned to face her betrothed.

Film Has Strange Qualities

New Photographic Material Held Secret For Military Reasons
A secret material developed at Cambridge, Mass., recently makes an entirely new kind of photograph which is formed partly of light rays themselves.

The new photos can do things never done before. Two can be developed on the same piece of film, one on top of the other. Three-dimensional pictures, both stills and movies, are practicable.

This new film is a secret for military reasons. It was developed by Edwin H. Land of the Polaroid Corporation, Cambridge.

The practical possibilities are tremendous. One is to make three-dimensional motion pictures which can be shown without any change in the present equipment of the theatres.

Both pictures are printed superimposed on a single standard film carrying the whole picture, so that any ordinary projector in any movie house can show.

Furthermore, taking the pictures for this new film is easy and fool-proof. It is done with a two-eyed camera, having two lenses about as wide apart as the human eyes. The two take separate pictures, seeing the scene just like a pair of eyes. These photos are developed separately, and then transferred one on top of the other to the new film.

The audience would have to use viewing glasses. But Mr. Land thinks these can be made so cheaply that they can be made part of the movie ticket, in the form of thin films set in cardboard.

Treated Like Slaves

Norwegian Workers Have To Go Where Nazis Send Them

Nazi authorities in Norway have recently transferred 10,000 Norwegian workmen from their regular trades to work in mines, fisheries and light metal industries, says News of Norway. In addition, 1,000 workmen from various parts of the country have been sent to Trondheim to aid in harbor projects there. These transfers are compulsory, and are made without regard for the workmen's skills or family situation. Wages, working hours, etc. are fixed arbitrarily by the Germans.

Peas Is Misleading
The name is not a nut at all but a member of the prosaic pea family. Peasants contain as high a percentage of protein as a fresh egg or a porterhouse steak.

During a famine in Greece between the years 331 and 323 B.C., the city of Colone, Libya, exported some 20,000 tons of cereals for the relief of starving Greek cities.

Scrap Iron And Steel

Have To Be Conserved More Especially In War Time

The National Revenue Review says. Scrap is one of the important primary materials of the iron and steel industry. In the manufacture of steel and of iron castings it replaces pig iron for ton while in rolling and stamping mills substantial tonnages are re-rolled and re-shaped into a variety of commercial products. More than 1.8 million tons of scrap iron and steel were used in Canadian industry in 1940, this tremendous tonnage assuming special significance in wartime from the standpoint of conservation as well as from the fact that it would require about 3½ million tons of iron ore, most of which must be imported, to supply this amount of new metal.

Scrap is anything of iron and steel that is the waste or by-product of manufacturing or that has been discarded, on account of failure, obsolescence or other factors that have rendered it unfit for further use in its present form. It is rails that have been discarded, automobiles that have been scrapped, freight cars and locomotives that have been withdrawn from service, machines that have outlived their usefulness, turnings from machinery operations, waste from stampings, and so on.

A Gentleman Thug

Hitler Sets Great Store By Himmler's Right Hand Man

Reinhard Heydrich, Himmler's righthand man in charge of Gestapo operations, is one of the handsomest figures in the Nazi hierarchy, says the London correspondent of the Ottawa Journal. He is a chief, possibly next to Hitler, about the most ruthless. Thirty-eight years of age, six-foot tall, blue-eyed, with blond complexion and fair hair, he is the approved "pure Nordic" model. But he has a dark criminal past and is a thug of the first water. He has been responsible for the shooting of hostages in France, Belgium, and Norway, and has now replaced the too tolerant Baron von Neurath, one-time German ambassador in London as Gauleiter of Bohemia and Moravia, where strikes and sabotage have caused much trouble to the German overlords.

Those who know him state that never was there a more perfect example of Hamlet's comment that "a man may smile and smile and be a villain." He combines a charming manner with completely Sadistic tendencies. Hitler sets great store by him, and doubtless he will prove a ruthless executant in his new job.

Sunflowers For Cattle

The London Sunday Express says: Sunflowers are being specially cultivated in Britain for the first time for commercial purposes at Norwich Corporation Farm. For years Continental countries have produced edible oil, paper-making material, cattle-feeding cake, chicken food, saltpetre, potash and dye from sunflower plants.

Tulips For Their Queen

A bunch of withered red and white streaked tulips, smuggled out of Holland by a small band of Netherlands who dared vigilance of German occupation, were presented to Queen Wilhelmina in London.

The Chile Pine

The Chile pine, first discovered in Chile, is considered the grandfather of all pines. It was a thriving tree in the Jurassic Period, millions of years ago.

Tarpon Springs, Fla., is the sponge capital of the world.

Very Important Job

Man And His Sheep Protect Munitions Plant in Australia

A shepherd, with a farmer's walk, wide hat and leggings, follows his calling at a group of munitions factories on the outskirts of Melbourne. With his dog and his flock of sheep, he is an incongruous figure among buildings from which comes the unceasing roar of machinery grinding out the implements of death.

He and his sheep are important in the safe working of the place. Their purpose is simple—to keep down the grass.

Spaces separating buildings scattered for safety over hundreds of acres must be well grassed, for dust and grit blown into danger buildings might cause friction in a machine, explosion of a charge, death to a man or many men. And long dry grass in summer might mean a grass fire, and obvious, terrible peril.

So while danger bells ring warning that no man may go near buildings in which machines, controlled from a distance, mix potent agents of death, the sheep grass unperturbed around.

Except in so far as they may bring greater loss to the enemy and victory in a cause worth more than money, the factory's war products must be written of the nation's accounts as the least instant they explode; but the peaceful sheep make profits.

Cargo Ships For British Have Names Beginning With V

The names so far given to cargo ships under construction at Richmond, California, for the British indicate a carryover of the new somewhat muted "V" campaign. The five ships already launched are the Ocean Vanguard, Ocean Vigil, Ocean Voice, Ocean Venture and Ocean Viking. Sixty ships in all are to be built at the Richmond yard and at a second yard in South Portland, Maine, for the account of the British. Section of the dictionary is not thick, but it will suffice to provide good names for at least sixty vessels. Virtue and valor and victory and vim and vigor are still in reserve, to mention but a few variants out of a vast and valuable variety—New York Sun.

Make Big Contribution

Gold Miners in Canada Are Helping With War Effort

Gold miners throughout Canada are making a vital contribution to the Canadian war effort. A force of little more than 25,000 men is producing over $200,000,000 a year in gold. This amount of gold would fully pay for more than 8,000 Spitfires a year. In the amount of munitions and war equipment, the product of their work will pay for, possibly no other group of men of equal size anywhere else in the world will compare with that of the 25,000 men who are digging out the gold from the mines of Canada—Toronto Saturday Night.

LOOK OUT FOR YOUR LIVER

Back it up right now and feel like a million!

Your liver is the largest organ in your body and most important to your health. It pours out bile to digest food, gets rid of waste, supplies new energy, allows proper nourishment to reach your blood. When your liver gets out of order, food decomposes in your intestines. You become constipated, stomach and kidneys can't work properly. You feel "rotten"—headache, indigestion, dizziness, sluggish and all the time.

For over 35 years thousands have won prompt relief from these ailments—with Fruit-A-Tives. So can you now. Try Fruit-A-Tives for a week. You'll feel like a new person, happy and well again. 25c, 50c.
